Ensure your tires are ready for the road

During the warmer months, additional travel and hot roadways can put added stress on your vehicle and its tires, in particular. Normal driving, turning and braking on hot roads can pose safety risks to your vehicle and tires. Whether you are simply commuting or planning a road trip this summer, these tips can help keep you safe on the road this summer.

Get Pressure Right and Check It Often

Low tire pressure can lead to many issues for your tires, like decreased steering and braking control, poor gas mileage, excessive tire wear and the possibility of tire failure. Temperature changes can also impact tire pressure; for every 10 degrees in temperature change, your tire pressure changes 1 PSI (pound per square inch). To stay safe on the road, check your tire pressure at least once a month when the tires are cool. The impacts of bumps and turns from everyday use can lead to normal air loss, so be sure to check regularly and before any road trips. You can find the manufacturer's recommended tire pressure on a sticker in your car's door jamb or in your owner's manual.

Check Your Tread

Tread depth refers to the amount of tread on a tire, which can impact a vehicle's handling, traction and safe stopping distance. More tread equals better road grip and shorter stopping distances while cars with lower tire tread can take significantly longer to stop. To easily check your tread depth, stick a penny upside-down in a tread groove. If you can see President Lincoln's entire head, your tread is worn down and it's time to replace your tires.

Rotate Tires Often

Tires should be rotated every 6,000 miles or earlier if you notice any uneven wear. Rotating your tires increases tread life and helps ensure a smooth and safe ride.

Double Check Your Trunk

Many newer vehicles have replaced spare tires with tire inflation kits. These kits include tools to keep you on the road, like puncture-coating sealants, air compressors and run-flat tires. Check to see what is included with your vehicle and consider adding a roadside assistance plan in case you experience a flat tire or other issues.

KENT KWIK NEWS

Congratulations to Adriana and her Team at 311 for winning round 3 of Kent Madness! It was so close and very exciting. Who will take round 4? Remember all you have to do is sell tons of 5 Hour Energy drinks.

Congratulations to the final 8. Keep up the great work on plus selling and keep in mind that even though your store is not on the final 8, you can still win the round and earn points for awesome prices.

A big thank you to Samantha for coming over to help and for doing a great job on taking care of our Guests. -Michael

These are real Team Members that sacrifice their time with their own family to help keep the Kent family operating and still have the positive attitude in working and keeping our Guests happy. Thanks to them all! -Richard, Store 902

SAFETY NEWS

Safety action for the week: Choices. Are you making good ones?

Well Kent Team, this is a difficult conversation, but one we all need to have. Not a one-way lecture from “The Safety Guy” telling you what you need to STOP doing, but rather an honest conversation with yourself about the choices you make.

In the last year and half, we have shared 70 safety messages in the newsletter. Each contained well researched tips and strategies to help keep you, fellow Team Members, Guests, and even your families safer.

Ultimately, the success or failure of our Safety Program, the success of everyone in this company and in fact, the success of the company itself comes down to one thing. Choices. Individual choices. Whether it is Safety or job performance, we have all been provided “keys to success” and know what we need to do. We see the safety messages and have received training and guidance from the Training Team, Field Coaches, and Managers. The conscious choice we make to either take positive action and “do the right thing” or ignore the proven path to success, determines our triumph or failure.

Our choices and resulting actions (or inaction in some cases) matter. We are all part of a Team. If we are making poor choices, we are not only hurting ourselves, but we are also hurting the Team. If you are a parent, a sibling, or in a relationship, your poor choices can negatively affect the people you care about in ways you may not even realize.

Pause for a moment and have that honest conversation with yourself. Are you making wise choices? Whether it is making good choices regarding safety or doing everything you are entrusted to do at work, your choices matter. A pattern of good choices will pave the way to success! We value EVERYONE on this Team and want you ALL to be safe and successful!

Stay safe. Stay aware. Stay clean.

Until next week,

The Safety Guy
