SAFETY NEWS

Keeping Safety in Sight

Nothing is too Small!

Safety Definition: to ensure safe and healthful working conditions for workers by setting and enforcing standards by providing training, outreach, education, and assistance.

We're approaching the summer months folks. While drinking and driving is an issue all year long, it unfortunately becomes more common during the summer season. Whether it's just a few drinks at a cookout, or more at a party, we can be sure that there will be drunk drivers on the roads. Please do not be one of them.

Also, this is a good moment to remind everyone that alcohol dehydrates the human body. If you do not want to be the one hanging over the porcelain throne the next day stop and drink some water after every 2 drinks you have. This might not keep you from the throne room but, it will help to keep you safe from heat exhaustion and worse yet a heat stroke.

One of the main risks of drinking out in the summer sun is dehydration. Alcohol consumption can cause an onset of dehydration more easily due to the fact that it is a diuretic, meaning it rids the body of more fluid than it takes in. When hot weather is accompanied by heavy drinking, your body temperature begins to rise faster than if you weren't drinking, and you start to sweat more – perspiration helps cool the body.

Then, alcohol further dehydrates you because it causes you to both urinate and perspire more than normal. Excess consumption of alcohol can also irritate the stomach and result in vomiting, which further depletes the body of much needed fluid and heightens the risk of dehydration. So, if you find yourself drinking this summer, be sure to also drink lots of water. You'll still have a great time drinking, and a much better time the following day.

They knew I was working alone and my cooler needed filling, so they spent 1 1/2 hours filling my cooler. Thank you, Enrique, Marcos, and Alex. Great construction crew!
